Parent Comments

It is very important to a child to be able to (1) think of ideas, and to (2) put them into writing. For this, homework like writing a simple report about a trip or an activity, or explaining a picture in writing will significantly help the child to improve.

Parent Comments

Math word problems are also vital to assist the child to think of and understand the problem, and then, to try and express it. If he is also able to find a solution, it will be better.

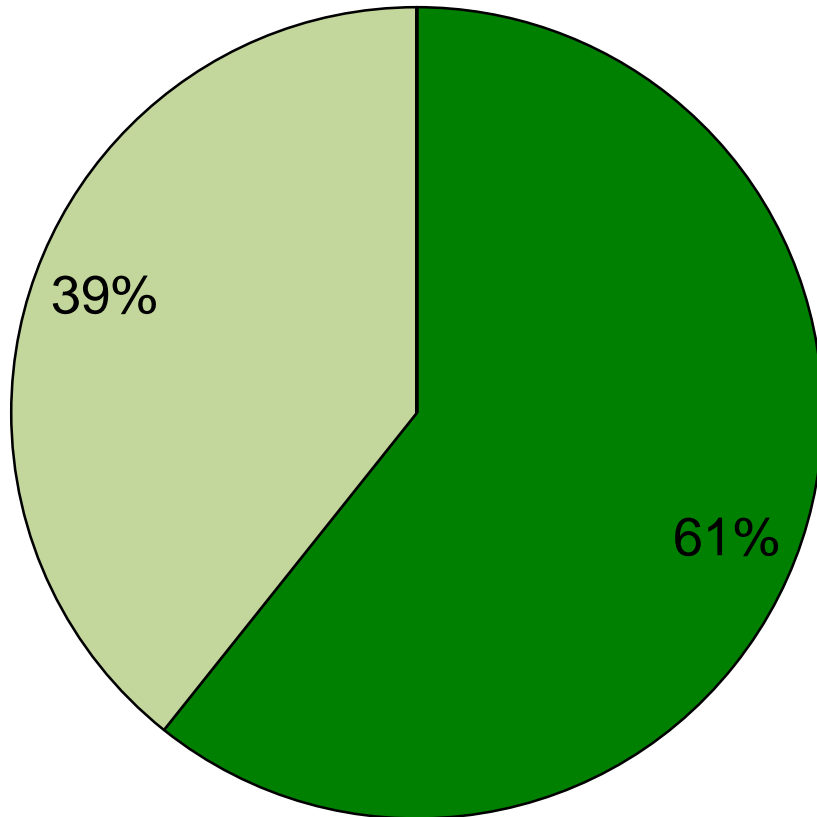

Parent Comments

I believe that extra homework should be given based on pupil's weakness in any subject and not just a standard piece of homework for every student.
Thanks.

Parent Comments

The amount of homework my child received this year was massively decreased, I would've liked for them to receive a bit more.

The school's wide ranging promotion if pupils spiritual, moral, social and cultural development is good.(15)
